Since 1994, the Workforce & Business Development Program of the Community Action Committee of Pike County has been providing business development services including one-on-one business counseling, business start-up classroom training, financial assistance and various forms of technical assistance.

The Community Action Committee of Pike County began to expand into the field of small business development in early 1993 with the first services provided to customers in January 1994.

Due to the success of this program, CAC of Pike County was awarded $1,000,000 from the Department of Energy (DOE) in order to expand the program to the four county service area most affected by the downsizing of a local uranium enrichment facility--Pike, Ross, Scioto and Jackson Counties. Since that time, over 3,500 individuals have sought the services of the program, with over 500 residents enrolling in the classroom training component of the program. In 2001, the program received an additional $500,000 from DOE. Over $2.8 million thus far has been lent, resulting in the leveraging of an additional $5.8 million.

In October, 1997, the CAC of Pike County's Microenterprise Program garnered the attention and secured a front page article in The Wall Street Journal. In 1998, the program was selected as a semi-finalist in the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, Innovations in American Government. In 2003, the program was a recipient of the Ohio Housing and Governor's Award for Excellence. Pike County's program has been awarded funding through the SBA's PRIME Program.
